SHOT TWO POLICEMEN AFTER ROBBERY BANK

Posse Closing in on Lone Bandit, Who Is Possibly Man Wanted for Weyerhaeuser Kidnapping—Killed Chief and Patrolman of Puyallup Police Force When Later Intercepted

TACOMA, July 15 (P).—A posse of police officers and citizens was believed to be closing in on the lone, cold-blooded bandit who shot and killed two police officers shortly after he had held up and robbed the Orting State Bank of $500 at Orting, eighteen miles southeast of Tacoma early today.

The dead officers are Chief of Police Frank Chadwick and Patrolman Harry W. Storem, both of the Puyallup police department.

SHOT THEM BOTH
Chadwick and Storem drove towards Orting to waylay the bandit. They met him directly in front of the C. W. Orton ranch, outside of Sumner. When they attempted to stop the man he fired upon them with a .38 calibre Colt revolver, killing Chadwick and fatally wounding Storem.

Within an hour after the fatal shooting the bandit's car, a machine stolen in Tacoma the morning, was found at the outskirts of Sumner with a flat tire. A posse of deputy sheriffs and citizens, led by Maurice C. Nelson, chief of the Sumner police, was organized at once and began an intensive search of farm berry and pea fields in the district. Officials expressed confidence that the bandit would be trapped.

POSSIBLY IS MAHAN
Department of Justice officials did not take reports that the bandit may be William Mahan, alleged brains of the Weyerhaeuser kidnapping gang and who is still at large, very seriously. They admitted, however, "it was possible" the bandit was Mahan.

MONTREAL HAS SEVERE STORM

Lightning and Rains Lead To Two Deaths—Property Damage Heavy

MONTREAL, July 15 (P).—One of the worst electrical storms of the year swept across Montreal today, beating a path of destruction and leaving behind two dead and a large number of injured, with heavy property damage caused by torrential rain.

Emile Paquin, twelve, was killed instantly in Jarry Park when a tree was felled by a flash of lightning. A girl companion, who was severely burned about the back.

Alderman Benjamin Goyer, sixty-nine, member of the city council of suburban St. Laurent, died of injuries received when the car in which he was driving with four others was struck by a Canadian National train at a level crossing during the heavy rain.

OTHERS SERIOUSLY HURT
Other occupants of the car were taken to hospital, where two were reported in a serious condition.

City power lines went dead at the height of the storm and the city was left without power for ten minutes.

Fire broke out at a Dominion Textiles, Limited, plant when a condenser was struck by lightning, but flames were extinguished without much damage. Fire also broke out in the elevator machinery at the Canadian Quarries, Limited, and firemen had to be called. The Montreal Light, Heat & Power, Consolidated, power house in the east end of the city was badly damaged when lightning struck transformers, necessitating fire calls.

CAUSE TROUBLE IN REGINA JAIL

Agitators Blamed for Threatened Riot—Hunger Strike Lasts Through One Meal

REGINA, July 15 (P).—Agitators from the ranks of strikers now in Regina jail awaiting trial next September are blamed for threatened riot in the jail on Sunday. William George Black, one of the strike leaders, was alleged to be in the forefront of the affair when prisoners refused to leave the chapel after morning service, and they organized a meeting, named a committee to interview the warden and make a number of "demands," some of which were under consideration and others flatly refused.

This morning, despite the apparent settlement, twenty inmates of the jail, all reported from ranks of the fifty strikers incarcerated, refused to come to breakfast on "hunger strike." As noon today the "hunger strikers" had appeared for dinner.

MANY BADLY BEATEN IN RIOTS AGAINST THE JEWS IN BERLIN

British War Veterans Welcomed By Hitler in Germany

BERLIN, July 15 (CP-Havas).—"The mission of war veterans throughout the world is to reconcile the peoples of various nations and not to mix in politics," Joachim von Ribbentrop, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Ambassador at Large, today told the British delegation of Great War veterans at a luncheon on the first day of their official visit to the German capital.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler was the first to make the British veterans welcome.

Aluding to relations between Great Britain and Germany, Von Ribbentrop declared: "There is no more trouble or misunderstanding between Germany and Great Britain. Since June 18, the date of the naval accord, I believe all persons realize that the first step was made in the way of practical peace."

Victoria Assured Federal Project To Be Extensive

City Member States $700,000 Will Be Spent in Victoria and Esquimalt by Dominion Government, Commencing This Summer—Naval Drill Hall Ordered at Cost of $80,000

FEDERAL expenditures approximating $700,000 will begin in Victoria and vicinity during the coming months, as a result of plans already approved by the Dominion Government, D. B. Plunkett, Victoria Federal member, reported yesterday on his return from Ottawa.

Mr. Plunkett listed the outlay as follows: Immediate allotment for the new Federal Building on Wharf Street, $300,000; sums required to carry the structure to completion, $200,000; work on the new hydrographic survey warehouse and shops, $100,000; a new drill hall for the Royal Canadian Navy and other works at Esquimalt, $80,000. In addition there is further work to be carried out in renovation at the Victoria Postoffice, estimated to cost $3,000.

As in the case of the Federal Building, local architects will be employed to draw the plans for the Esquimalt undertakings, Mr. Plunkett said.

BELFAST SNIPERS CONTINUE ACTIVE

Another Youth Killed in Fourth Day of Disorders Between Religious Factions

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 15 (P).—Another youth fell under the fire of snipers today in the fourth day of disorders between Protestants and Catholics in a riotous Belfast.

James Andrew, seventeen, was shot and wounded as he walked along Boyd Street, but his assailants escaped.

Otherwise Belfast remained quiet under the vigilance of police and troops, as two victims of the weekend riots, in which five persons were killed and seventy-five wounded, were buried.

Large crowds attended the services, with heavily-armed police escorts and armored cars.

Aged Man Meets Instant Death at Constance Cove

George Jones Struck on Head by Handle of Winch While Raising Logs to Wharf at Esquimalt—Sidney G. Smith Suffers Fractured Arm When Log Slips

STRUCK by the revolving handle of a winch when it got out of control at the rear of the Esquimalt Hotel yesterday at 6:15 p.m., George Jones, aged sixty-seven years, sustained a fractured skull and died within a few minutes. Sidney G. Smith, aged twenty-six years, 484 Cattle Street, who was assisting Jones on the machine in an effort to raise logs from Constance Cove to a wharf at the rear of the hotel, suffered a compound fracture of the right arm, broken hand and severe lacerations.

According to Esquimalt Police Chief H. W. V. Peckhold, the accident apparently occurred when a heavy log that the men were hauling up a slip rolled off the incline, pulling the cable with it and causing the winch to suddenly reverse its action. The handle was torn from their hands, throwing the workers off balance and in the way of the speedily-revolving arm.

Mr. Smith was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital by Thomas J. Brundson, proprietor of the hotel. He was not employed in the operations and was simply lending a hand for a moment when the accident occurred.

Dr. W. J. Endicott was called to the scene and after a short examination pronounced Jones dead. Jones, an ex-mariner, was caretaker at Esquimalt Hotel.

On instruction of Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart, the body was removed to Carter's Funeral Home. An inquest will be held.

PICKETS ON WATERFRONT
Longshoremen Claim to Be Locked Out—Others Are Working Ships

Peaceful picketing was the response of the union longshoremen to the action of Victoria employers in working incoming ships here yesterday. Following the decision of the employers in hiring members of the newly-formed waterfront organization on Saturday to load cargo aboard the outbound Empress of Canada, members of the Association of Transport Workers turned out in considerable numbers early yesterday morning and took up stations at the entrance to Rishet docks and Ogden Point Piers. They remained at the former position while the ships were alongside, and continued at the entrance of the assembly plant throughout the day and evening.

Rumors of blows being exchanged and windows broken over Sunday were going the rounds of the docks during the morning, but these could not be confirmed. The picketing yesterday was quiet enough, the longshoremen who refused to work because of "union principles" merely displaying sandwich boards stating that they had been "locked out," and distributing a bulletin which read as follows:

Parachutist Rescues Man In Mid-Air

MOSCOW, July 15 (P).—A jumper whose parachute was torn away in midair was saved by a fellow-parachutist in a thrilling episode at the Moscow military airfield today.

Soldier Nosokoff, caught on the stabilizer of an airplane after tearing from the wing, lost his parachute and hurtled down. In midair he struck another parachutist, Soldier Kraskikoff, and clutched him desperately.

They fell rapidly, until 300 feet above the earth Nosokoff finally found the cord of Kraskikoff's reserve parachute and opened it. In time to check their fall. Both landed safely.

Lunar Eclipse Gives Spectacular Show to Thousands of Persons

Haze Obscures Early Phases of Phenomenon, But Eclipse Becomes Clearly Visible From 9 o'Clock Onward to Nearly Midnight

DESPITE a dense slate-blue haze piled up against the Eastern horizon, the lunar eclipse last night provided thousands of Victoria citizens with a splendid spectacle. From roof, window, street-corner, hill-top, and miles of surrounding beaches and rocky shoreline, people equipped with field-glasses or small telescopes waited in groups to watch the last phases of the phenomenon until the last trace of the penumbra or second shadow disappeared at 11:43 o'clock, when the moon sailed forth in magnificent splendor to light the beautiful Summer night.

At the scheduled local time for heavy clouds on the horizon, moon did not become visible until about 8:30 o'clock. It was then still in the umbra or main shadow cone, which probably accounted for its invisibility, although there is, even in eclipse, a faint light which is reflected from the earth's atmosphere.

At eight minutes past the hour totality began, but owing to the Manifesto of C.C.F. Says Aim of Party Is New Social Order

Woodsworth Says His Group to Fight for New Economic Set-Up—Blames Present System for Most Troubles

OTTAWA, July 15.—Construction of a new social order was the aim of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation enunciated in a manifesto issued today by J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the movement. The other parties would go before the voters in the approaching general elections with proposals to reform the existing capitalist system. The C.C.F. would fight for new economic set-up.

Commenting on the platform of the Reconstruction party, under the leadership of H. H. Stevens, announced last week, Mr. Woodsworth said it served to throw into bold relief the fundamental issue of the coming campaign. It was the issue of "reform versus the abolition of capitalism."

The C.C.F. was "a democratic mass movement, independent of all other groups and parties," the manifesto declared. Its programme of social reconstruction offered the only real hope to all classes for emancipation from the "insecurity and inhumanity of our present economic system."

OBSTACLE TO PROGRESS

The great obstacle to a planned and socialized economic order, Mr. Woodsworth said, "is the monopolistic concentration of economic power in the hands of a small group of big financiers and industrialists who exploit the masses of the people for their own private profit and who refuse to allow the machinery of production to work at full capacity unless they can levy toll from it."

"The essential task before us is to oust this arbitrary irresponsible plutocracy from power," the manifesto declared, "and to bring our economic institutions, as our ancestors brought our political institutions, under democratic control."

LLOYD GEORGE PLAN REJECTED

British Cabinet to Give Reasons Monday for Dropping "New Deal" Scheme

LONDON, July 15 (AP).—A final decision rejecting Lloyd George's "new deal" programme for Great Britain was taken tonight by the Cabinet.

A detailed statement of reasons for the action will be published Monday.

A prosperity loan of £250,000,000 (almost $1,250,000,000) for the financing of productive public works during the next two years formed the backbone of the "new deal" proposals, made public in their entirety for the first time today.

Parliamentary opinion veered towards the idea of a general election next Spring, thanks to the clarification of the atmosphere by the Government's rejection of the plan.

SOME NOW IN EFFECT

The report of the Cabinet committee was expected to point out that several of the new deal projects already had been put into effect, while others were visionary.

Anticipating the rejection, Lloyd George has said Britain cannot eliminate the debt and return to prosperity by traditional methods, but must use bolder plans. He has announced he will put the plan before the country at the forthcoming elections.

He envisioned:

1. A national development board to act as a permanent authority for surveying industrial, agricultural and financial resources, planning economic progress and considering definite plans of action.

OVERSEAS MARKETS

2. Financial assistance for the development of overseas markets.
3. Reduction of the Cabinet to a six-man body.

4. The placing of the Bank of England under the control of a board representing financial, industrial and commercial interests.
5. Urban housing and rural development, with the construction of 200,000 homes in the next few years.

6. A general wholesale overhauling of Britain's highway, power, communications and industrial systems.
7. A large scale subsistence home-stead scheme, financial assistance for agriculture and national reclamation, national drainage and reconditioning.

KEEPS ADDING TO HIS FORCES

Mussolini Orders Mobilization of Two of New Military Divisions

ROME, July 15 (AP).—Benito Mussolini gave the world new testimony tonight of his determination to make the Italian army in East Africa a powerful one, as orders went forth for the mobilization of two of the new military divisions.

One is to be composed of regular army men and the other of black-shirts.

ARMY NOW 250,000

Approximately 35,000 men are involved in the new mobilization, it was announced in an official communique, bringing the total of troops already in East Africa or designated for service there to 250,000.

Of those called up to date, 20,000 are regulars and from 12,000 to 15,000 are Fascist militiamen.

It was indicated he was not permitting the Italian-Ethiopian dispute to divert his attention entirely from Italy's European defenses by ordering construction of ten new submarines.

In addition, he called up specialists from the classes of 1909, 1910 and 1912, and still more specialists as pilots for the air force.

The paper Giornale d'Italia, often officially inspired, characterized the latest mobilization as a move taken in view of Ethiopia's "warlike preparations on all Italian fronts and hostile propaganda which has been carried on with the object of arousing Ethiopian fury against Italians."

It was also pointed out that as fast as divisions are mobilized for East African service they are re-constructed at home.

Three Speakers Heard by Group in Municipality

Esquimalt Liberal Association members last night heard brief addresses by C. H. O'Halloran, Major F. Henson and C. J. McDowell, Victoria Liberal nominee for the federal election.

Mr. O'Halloran discussed Canada's place in the world of trade, while Major Henson gave several statistics on polling stations in the Victoria and Esquimalt areas. Mr. McDowell gave a resume of the existing Ottawa conditions and a study of the Stevens Reconstruction Party and proposed reforms of Premier R. B. Bennett and the C.C.F.

SUMMER CLASS STUDIES SKIES

Amateur Astronomers Present in Large Numbers at Outdoor Observation

The prospect of viewing the lunar eclipse with the two telescopes erected on the grounds by members, attracted an unusually large number to the Summer study club meeting of the Victoria Centre of the Astronomical Society of Canada last evening, at Victoria College.

Observation work was preceded by an hour's classroom work. The proceedings opened with a clever explicit talk on the altitude-azimuth system of astronomical coordinates, given by Miss Phoebe Riddle, B.A., one of the most brilliant young students in the group. Miss Riddle showed that just as it was possible to find the position of any given point on the earth's surface by knowing its latitude and longitude, so was there a means of finding out celestial "latitude" and "longitude" by means of various systems of coordinates.

The second part of the classroom work was occupied with a talk on the optical principles of the telescope, given by James Duff, M.A. This was freely illustrated with blackboard drawings of simple convex and concave lenses, and the effect of these on a ray of light passing through. The subject was related to telescopic lenses and the construction of telescopes generally, with an explanation for the length of tube used, and the necessity of mobility. Very briefly, he also intimated the principles governing the reflector and refractor types of telescope.

Lieutenant-Commander H. R. Tingley, the vice-president, introduced the speakers in the absence of the president, and also announced that next Monday night's talk would be given by Dr. R. M. Petrie, of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory staff, the subject to be "The Sun: Our Nearest Star." The topic will be illustrated by means of lantern slides.

Observation work subsequently on the terrace, was directed by Robert Peters, assisted by two telescopes, one a six-inch reflector, operated by the builder, Gordon Shaw, and the other Mr. Peters' own three-and-a-half-inch refractor. With the assistance of these, excellent views were had of the moon as it emerged from the umbra and penumbra of the eclipse; also of Jupiter and two of its satellites; several double stars, Zeta Scorpio, Mizar in Ursa major and star cluster M59.

The importance of the color as a key to the temperature and composition of stars was pointed out by Mr. Peters. Blue, for instance, indicated great heat. In the neighborhood of Jupiter a small blue star of the "B" class was indicated, the temperature of this being between 28,000 and 30,000 degrees. The sun is defined, astronomically, as bright yellow; Arcturus as "bright orange"; Vega, bright blue. The spectrum of Arcturus, which is a "K" star, indicates metallic vapors. Antares was also pointed out, and Spica, a super giant, very hot, immediately beneath Mars in the heavens.

ANNUAL SCHOOL SESSIONS OPEN

Many Children Present at Metropolitan United Church at Initial Classes

Nearly sixty children, between the ages of three and fifteen years, gathered yesterday to attend the first sessions of the fourth annual Central Vacation School, being conducted in the Metropolitan United Church under Rev. E. W. Horton, assistant pastor at First United Church.

Officials of the school were highly pleased with the attendance at the first day of school, and anticipate larger attendance this morning. School is in session from 9 a.m. to noon each morning until August 2.

Classes in Bible study, worship periods, handicraft classes and games are given equal attention at the school. Kenneth McDonald and Walter Mathews are in charge of the intermediate section of the school, while Miss Vera Sinclair and Mrs. A. M. Nazamish are in charge of the junior and primary grades, respectively.

The last hour of each Friday morning class will be open for the public to attend. The school is non-denominational, with children of Anglican, Baptist, United Church, Salvation Army, Unity Centre and Christian Science faiths being present. On August 2, a demonstration of the work done will be carried out. Any child wishing to attend is welcome.

D. C. Coleman Not To Visit C.P.R. Properties Here

Owing to a last-minute change in his plans, D. C. Coleman, senior vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, did not come to Victoria, Sunday, as expected. Instead, Mr. Coleman with his party, intends to leave immediately for the East.

Accompanying him are: W. M. Neaf, vice-president of Western lines; M. E. Nichols, managing director of The Winnipeg Tribune; H. B. Shaw, chairman of the Montreal Publicity Bureau; S. L. Cook, superintendent of the Royal Bank of Canada; and C. A. Cotterell, assistant general manager, C.P.R., Vancouver.

SEEK GRANT ON FERRIES

Subsidies of $2,500 to $6,500 Yearly Asked for Island Boat Route

Annual subsidies ranging from $2,500 to $6,500 were asked by tenderers yesterday for the operation of a Provincial ferry across Baynes Sound between Buckles Bay, on Vancouver Island and Denman Island. Accompanied by $100 deposit cheques, the tenders were opened by Hon. John Hart, acting Minister of Public Works, and referred for report.

The bids were asked on two bases, one implying limited operation of the ferry and the other for additional trips, both with licence over a five-year period.

Tenders were announced as follows:

Capt. A. H. Swan, Denman Island, subsidy of $4,500 for limited operation, and $5,000 for the more extended schedule. David Robertson, Courtenay, subsidy $2,500 and $3,000, respectively; W. W. Baikie Bros., Denman Island, subsidy of $2,500 and $3,650, respectively; L. E. Good, Victoria, subsidy of $3,740 for the extended operation only.

Capt. A. R. Good of Nanaimo, put in six bids on a different basis and these will be analyzed for comparison. It was stated. The figures mentioned a subsidy ranging from $3,400 to $6,500.

All tenders were referred for report.

WAS RESTING AT YOKOHAMA

Captain Kinley, of Russia, Saw Captain Green in Japanese Port

Captain E. P. Green, R.N.R., retired commander of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, accompanied by his eighteen-year-old son and a Chinese cook-sailor, are resting at Yokohama on their projected crossing of the Pacific in the Romance, a forty-five-foot brigantine with auxiliary power. Captain W. T. Kinley, R.N.R., commander of the S.S. Empress of Russia, reported here yesterday when he brought his big white command in from the Far East.

The former Canadian Pacific captain, who left Hongkong seven weeks ago for Vancouver, where his wife and daughter are awaiting him, is now half-way toward his goal. With his son and a faithful Chinese, who is able to cook and hold the little craft on her course, Captain Green is making good headway against the Pacific swells. Captain Kinley, who saw Captain Green in Yokohama, said:

"Captain Green, while still in C.P.R. service and nearing the pension age, conceived the idea of building a little sailing ship in which to spend his remaining years. Accordingly the Romance was built at Hongkong. Made of termite-resistant jackal and fitted with beautiful teak, the little ship fulfilled Captain Green's fondest dreams. After sailing her back here, he plans to put her in service for fishing expeditions and other recreational jaunts up and down the coast."

"A stout little ship which can sail to a gale and will take us anywhere" is how Captain Green described the Romance to Captain Kinley when they met in Yokohama ten days ago. Captain Kinley declared.

Many Badly Beaten In Anti-Jewish Riot Of Nazis in Berlin

ance at police, who were almost powerless to intervene in the rioting. As some 800 Nazis descended on the Kurfuerstendamm, known as a favorite gathering place of Jews, throngs flocked to the thoroughfare from all over Berlin's West End.

The attackers, seizing and beating every man who they thought looked like a Jew, and shouting "Down with the Jews!" and "Throw the Jews out!" spread through all the cafes of the district.

A THREATENING CROWD
Fifty-two detachments of helmeted police were rushed to the Kurfuerstendamm in riot cars. They found men being dragged and kicked in the street, the cafe terraces being smashed right and left, and a shouting crowd lining the sidewalks. One officer drew his revolver, but the crowd was so threatening his comrades forced the arm back in its holster.

The Jewish proprietor of another big cafe, one of the largest in the district, was dragged out and badly beaten, and one of his employees knocked unconscious by a stone hurled by the marauders. A flying squad of Nazis chased another Jew the full length of the Kurfuerstendamm and then spared him when he cried out: "I am a foreigner!"

"Then become a citizen," he was told.

Most of the raiders were brown shirts under their coats and wore the boots of storm troopers.

LIGHTS EXTINGUISHED

As the rioting reached its height, cafes along the Kurfuerstendamm put out their lights and tourists rushed for the upstairs rooms in the darkness. In the street, Nazis were assaulting blocked automobiles and dragging their occupants out for interrogation.

A Kurfuerstendamm film theatre showing an anti-Jewish film was thrown into an uproar when a band of Nazis suddenly interrupted the performance, shouted for lights, and then proceeded to throw out bodily all men in the theatre suspected of being Jewish.

Unable to keep order in the turmoil, police tried to round up foreigners and escort them to safety. A number of Canadians were believed to be among them. Above the shouts of those struggling resounded the cries of Nazis selling Der Stuermer, organ of the Nazi district chief for Franconia, Julius Streicher, outstanding anti-Semite of the Third Reich.

SOME IN UNIFORM
Many of those dragged from their cars in the Kurfuerstendamm were beaten by storm troopers, some of them appeared in full uniform as the fighting grew more intense. Shouts of "Isaac, Isaac!" went up from the crowd as the victims were dragged by the troopers.

Arrests grew more frequent as the night wore on, but it was impossible in the general confusion to estimate the number as the hurried Berlin police took them away in riot cars. The rioting died down suddenly at midnight.

Witnesses on the scene said the rioting began when a storm trooper jostled a Jew passing—the theatre where the anti-Jewish film was being shown. The Nazi was arrested and taken to a police station, but a menacing crowd gathered about him as two officers escorted him through the Kurfuerstendamm. Later the police set the Nazi free.

SENT TO CAMPS
BREITLAU, Germany, July 15 (AP)—Six Jews and six Aryans were arrested by special police and sent to concentration camps today for alleged intimate relations.

The Nazi newspaper Schlesische Tages Zeitung, one of the leading exponents of anti-Semitic doctrine, warned:

"More couples of Jews and Aryans who disregard Nazi race policies will follow them to camps."

Mr. Thomas reviewed the Y.M.C.A. activities of physical education, at the Y.M.C.A. College in Chicago, spoke on new developments in physical education, Mr. Paulding reported.

COURT IMPOSES LONGER TERM

Appeal in Kirkham Case Results in Adding Four Months to Sentence

The British Columbia Court of Appeal yesterday increased the term of sentence which had been imposed upon H. O. Kirkham, making it six months instead of two months, which was the term fixed by Magistrate Jay in the Oak Bay police court. The charge against the accused was that of having committed an assault upon a girl. The appeal was taken by the Crown.

In giving the judgment of the Court of Appeal, Mr. Justice Martin said that the court, after taking all the facts into consideration, had reached the conclusion that a grave offence had been committed by the accused without doubt.

It was considered that a sentence of two months was not adequate for the protection of the public and it had, therefore, been decided to increase the term to six months with hard labor.

A. J. Patton, who appeared in court for the accused, in reply to a question as to the operation of the amended sentence, received the reply that the two months' time that had already been served would be taken from the new sentence.

The appeal was heard on Friday, when Stuart Henderson appeared for the accused in presenting the case. The accused has already completed his term of two months.

GAMING HOUSE CHARGE COMBATED IN COURT

In the city police court yesterday morning, the charges against Lee Hong and seventeen other Chinese of being found in a gaming house were proceeded with, Frank Higgins, K.C., appearing for the accused and entering a plea of not guilty.

Mr. Higgins combatted the idea that the place could be called a gaming house. He argued that it was rather a social club such as was not uncommon among other classes in the city. The club was not incorporated but served a social place among the Chinese and was not regarded as a common gaming house. The contention was combatted by R. C. Lowe, who appeared as prosecutor for the city.

The judgment was reserved by the deputy police magistrate, Alexis Martin, until Thursday.

PLANE CRASH HURTS FOUR

Taku Plane Wrecked at McDame Lake, Injuring Entire Personnel

Pilot J. MacDonald, a mechanic and two passengers not yet identified were injured in a serious airplane crash at McDame Lake on Saturday evening, according to advices received yesterday by headquarters of the Provincial Police from Constable J. Meek, in charge of a new wireless station just put into the field at that point. A rescue plane, with physician and supplies, is on the way from Carcross, to pick up the injured men and take them to hospital at Atlin.

So far as it is known here, Pilot MacDonald flew with a party of three men from Taku to McDame Lake on Saturday. In some manner not explained, the machine crashed and was badly smashed. The pilot sustained a fracture of one leg and was cut by flying glass, being unable to move without help. One of the passengers broke his collarbone. The mechanic and the remaining passenger were shocked and bruised, but are less seriously hurt, it is believed.

WAS TAKEN MACHINE

The wrecked machine was one belonging to Strong & Robbins, at Taku, from which point arrangements were made for a relief aircraft to fly from Carcross to McDame Lake, to take the four injured men to Atlin for hospital treatment. A doctor left with the relief plane, to give what air he could at the scene. Pilot Watson was in charge.

The presence of the new police wireless at McDame Creek, some distance from the take itself, brought quick prospect of aid that otherwise would have been five days by boat from Telegraph Creek in reaching the scene. There were no boats on hand and but for timely wireless help the plight of the injured men might have become serious.

Names of three of the four men in the wrecked plane could not be ascertained.

APPEAL COURT HAD HARD TASK

Long List Kept Judges Busy Since Early in June Until Present Time

Working long into the court vacation, the judges of the British Columbia Court of Appeal yesterday completed the list set down for review by them from the courts below. In spite of the fact that the vacation was on, the members of that court did not refuse to hear any appeals that came before them.

A few cases, by agreement of counsel, were set over to the next session, but the requests came from the counsel engaged in each of these instances.

CRIMINAL LIST HEAVY

In criminal appeals there has been an exceptionally heavy list to consider. This was created by the members of the court being called upon to review the convictions that were obtained at the last assize sitting in Vancouver in connection with the general clean-up of that city. The evidence in these cases was exceedingly long and the presentation of the appeals by counsel engaged called for the reading of very lengthy extracts from the appeal books.

PRESIDING JUDGE

The illness of Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald made it unwise for him to take any part in the deliberations of the court following the formal opening of the sitting. His place was taken throughout by Mr. Justice Martin, who, as the senior member of the bench, was the presiding judge. With the other members of the bench, Mr. Justice McPhillips, Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald and

Mr. Justice McQuarrie, the greatest patience was manifested with counsel in what must have been a most trying sitting for the members of the court.

The task is not yet finished for the members of the court, who still have judgments to prepare in cases where it was found necessary to reserve decisions in order to examine into the citations made before them by counsel.

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your lower bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. You have up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet so powerful in making bile flow freely. Victoria Moose To Take Part in Big Convention

Victoria will be well represented at the Moose Association convention to be held August 1, 2 and 3 at Port Angeles. It was announced yesterday by officials of the organization. The Victoria Chapter, Women of the Moose, No. 25, drill team, degree team of Victoria Moose Lodge No. 1290 and delegates, and the Victoria Junior Moose Drum Corps will attend in uniform.

The latter is the only Junior Moose drum corps in the Pacific Northwest, and the only fraternal Junior drum corps on Vancouver Island. The drum corps will hold a practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock, in the band room.

The Junior Moose lodge will hold a special meeting on Saturday, July 20, to initiate candidates and to take part in the fifteenth anniversary of the senior lodges. The annual Moose picnic will be held on Sunday, July 21.

WHEAT POLICY

It is understandable why there should be a degree of nervousness on the Liverpool and Baltic exchanges because of Canada's new wheat policy. That nervousness exists because what is to be proposed is so uncertain, and, indeed, will not be known until a new Grain Board is appointed. The fear in Great Britain is that large quantities of wheat may be dumped on the market at sacrifice prices. This is unlikely, because the policy for some time past has been to hold the wheat until a good price can be obtained.

The new Board is to take over the McFarland holdings and control marketing. It is to endeavor to promote wheat trading, which is now virtually at a standstill. The assumption is that if there is to be marketing on the scale desired the Government must suffer losses on the stock now on hand and also on the new crop. There will be the question to decide as to the extent of the loss that will be taken. There are some who maintain that Canada has been engaged in an unsuccessful gamble with her wheat. In any case, a change in policy has been decreed by the legislation of last session which makes the Government more responsible than ever before. There is to be a state monopoly of the wheat trade through the operations of a Board which will be given the widest powers. It can make a fixed price, and if it has to market below this price it is from the taxes of the people as a whole that the difference must be made up between the two levels. That is an uncomfortable thought.

It is no use in the case of wheat or any other commodity attempting to exact a price that is not warranted by world marketing conditions. It must be remembered, too, that the milling industry in importing countries have reached agreements as affecting the wheat situation. In Great Britain, for instance, these interests have been helped by the domestic quota arrangement, and, moreover, they have accustomed the consumer to a bread flour with a greatly reduced content of hard wheat. Consumers on the continent of Europe are being similarly treated. In other words, the market for wheat has been contracting for the product of this Dominion. That is the point that must be kept in view as regards any policy of the future. The fixing of a minimum price, while all very well for the farmers, since the Government is to pay it, will not be of benefit to the taxpayers as a whole if they have to make good the deficit arising through sales of the product by the new governmental agency.

A WORD ABOUT EVOLUTION

There has recently been some newspaper discussion upon the theory of evolution, or, as some prefer to call it, the evolutionary hypothesis. The discussion has been carried on in quite a lively manner, and, indeed, the debaters have in a few instances gone so far as to say uncompromisingly things about the intelligence and even about the good faith of their opponents. The subject is one which has for a long time aroused strong feeling upon both sides.

There is in some quarters, perhaps, less objection to the doctrine of evolution and its presumed implications than to the heavy technical language in which its advocates express themselves, and the same is no doubt true of the uncompromising severity with which they refer to their opponents. It has frequently happened that militant controversialists, employ such epithets as "obscurantist" and "ignoramus." The fact that the terms "pagan" and "atheist" have been used on the other side does not help matters much. A reasonable amount of good humor on both sides might clarify the dispute somewhat.

It is perhaps unfortunate that evolutionary doctrine is sometimes couched in such formidable language. The Spencerian tremor which purports to "define" evolution is a case in point. Evolution, it was said, is a change from an indefinite, incoherent homogeneity to a definite, coherent heterogeneity, in structure and function, through successive differentiations and integrations. This, indeed, may be the expression of an external truth, but it hardly ever fails to provoke a smile. It is said that there are stout evolutionists who can repeat this formula correctly word for word, having learned it by heart. Others are content to be able to recognize it at sight. Several attempts have been made to translate this into English. A mathematician named Kirkman suggested something like the following, namely, that it is a change from a nowish, untalkaboutable allalikeeness to a somewhatish, in-general-talkaboutable not-allalikeeness, by continuous separations and sticktogetherness, in a more serious vein, a noted scientist, who believes that evolution applies to living things alone, remarks that the "plausible and superficial" Spencerian generalizations have created an impression in the average mind that "evolution" accounts for everything.

Again, the oft-quoted phrases, "natural selection" and "survival of the fittest," have evoked some criticism. If the former is merely the pruning knife which trims the buds on the tree of life, this is a process of rejection rather than selection, and it has been pointed out that in any case it cannot account for the original character and behavior of the original sprouts which escaped the knife or for the direction in which they tended to grow. The phrase "survival of the fittest" has an impressive and triumphant ring to it, but when analyzed it conveys little beyond the fact that those who are fit for survival actually do survive, and surely there needs no ghost come from the grave to tell us of the survivors survive.

An evolutionist once reconstructed on evolutionary lines the psychology of an ancient race and announced that his hypothetical reconstruction was at once a contribution to psychology and a vindication of evolution! This was not much worse than the vegetarian who found some domestic utensils in a cave, and, conceiving the theory that the people who used them were vegetarians, wrote a masterly "reconstruction" of their domestic arrangements as a contribution to dietetics and a vindication of vegetarianism. It was indeed not unlike the evolutionists of today who insist that the sequence of fossils, as officially approved by evolutionists, must determine the order of geological rock formations and then point to geology as circumstantial evidence for the claim that evolution has really taken place. It is an odd kind of logic.

A CHEERFULNESS TAX

These are days when causes almost infinite are sought for reasons why taxes should be imposed, but it is in Portugal alone that an impost has been devised for a wholly new purpose. It is to promote cheerfulness among party followers by providing a fund so that they may have special outings. The money is to be spent on those workers who are the keenest supporters of the Government. In this way it may well be regarded as a campaign fund and directly derived as such from the taxpayers. It is the people who themselves pay the taxes who will be contributing the money for their own recreation. The only difference is that they will be taken on governmental tours instead of going on tours of their own. That may not have the effect desired, for there is no reason to be more cheerful because a Government is paying the cost of recreation than if it was being paid directly by the people themselves. It is an experiment, in the course of which those who are not friendly to the Government will help to pay for the "good times" of those who are. National Labor is in the saddle at Lisbon. The strength of its following and the enthusiasm for the cause will determine the amount of money that it will be desirable to spend. It appears on the surface a very costly venture for any Government to undertake. The national fund for cheerfulness will, no doubt, be rigidly exhausted on the eve of every election.

"LOATH TO BELIEVE"

When Emperor Haile Selassie asked the United States to invoke the Kellogg-Briand Pact to prevent Italy engaging in war with Ethiopia he was notified that Washington "was loath to believe" that Italy and Ethiopia would fight about such things. In view of the tension of the situation this was not a comforting answer, since, too, it was followed by instructions to the American Legation at Addis Ababa to get all Americans out of Ethiopia. It seems, therefore, that the United States is not going to get mixed up in the situation in any way. It is gratified that the League of Nations is endeavoring to settle the dispute, and that is all. It appears as if Great Britain is the only one of the Great Powers that is making strenuous efforts to avert a war in Africa. The other nations are quite neutral in their outlook. If there is war it may well spell the end of any influence the League of Nations has in such crises.

The depression and consequent unemployment after the Napoleonic Wars lasted in Great Britain for at least eleven years, possibly much longer, as there are records of unemployment in 1835. There is a story told of a woman engaged in road-making in 1826 who unearthed a stone tablet embedded in the foundations of an old road. On it was inscribed, "This road was built by the unemployed in 1826."

DANGEROUS SLIMMING

Girls endeavor to meet the edict of stylists. By means of the orange juice diet, exercise in the form of dancing until morning, and two meals instead of the normal three, they will lose the "thirty-three pounds" to fit the styles of Spring—that is, if they do not lose their physical balance first. Growing girls who need the proper rest and nourishment are the ones most susceptible to style suggestions. The result is seen in the records of sanatoria which are filled with girls suffering from various degrees of physical breakdown, particularly tuberculosis. If there are laws to prevent the use of arsenic on hamburgers, there ought to be a law curbing the stylists. —New York Times.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Talkativeness has another plaque attached to it, even when, for practical purposes, it is a virtue. It is a virtue to be able to say much that may have much to say—Plutarch.

"Think of it, my friends and fellow-sufferers! Here we are, ten millions of us, living in a land capable of supporting and enriching fifty millions of people, and many of us are living in a state of starvation! We listened to the above tattered and worn platitudes coming through the air at an early hour in the morning. We read it in the paper as coming from the mouth of one of our new party leaders. From the rising of the sun to the going down thereof we shall not be able to get out of range of it. And it is all just so much of the political humbug current every day.

The Canadian part of this continent is capable of absorbing and feeding fifty millions and more. But Canada is forty millions short of her paper quota, and the inference to be drawn from the speeches and resolutions moved by many political charlatans is that all governments which have held power within their years in Canadian history are responsible for this stunted growth.

We do not believe Canada is going to prove a Peter Pan among the nations. We have not the slightest doubt that Canada will grow up; but we do not believe that the growth of Canada in population can be accelerated by turning a Conservative Government out and putting any other kind of government in. We do not believe that Mr. King, Mr. Woodsworth, Mr. Stevens, Mr. Connell, Mr. McGeer, or Mr. Tim Buck, can wave a magic wand over that part of the world which produces the best kind of settlers and set in motion a trek of population which will fill up our vast places with a multitude of producers and consumers.

There are reasons for this state of incompetence in governments and magicians. There are strong forces in Canada opposed to immigration in masses and in the countries where the best human material is to be found the wanderlust has abated, the land has lost its lure. The old age pension is sure, unemployment insurance is a guarantee against privation. Great Britain is a modern land not only of promise, but of performance, and its inhabitants might go farther and fare worse if they were tempted to put fortune to the touch in other countries. No government of Canada, not even a government led by the demagogue who bewails the sparseness of our population, dare pull down the bars and invite the hordes of all nations to come in and possess the land.

Again, what nonsense it is to talk about filling up our waste places with foreigners when there are so many idle persons already in the country. Idle talk and foolish notions. That is what Canada is suffering chiefly from at the present time, and probably will be afflicted with until after the election for the Dominion Parliament. A wave of political rallies of the most virulent type is sweeping over the country. The virus has been traced to its original lair in the editorial articles of The Winnipeg Free Press. The editor seems to have been bitten by a bug which had been specially fed upon from whose juices are envy, malice and all uncharitableness. The halberd of The Free Press for Prime Minister Bennett has become so uncontrollable that it is a source for comment in all Canadian newspapers.

Idle talk; foolish notions and futile actions. Idle talk in the pulpits, on the platforms and in the air; foolish notions given currency through all avenues of communication, including the newspapers; futile actions in marching from one part of the country to the other and making preposterous demands upon governments. The folly of discussing whether prosperity is more likely to be promoted by prodigal spending or miserly hoarding; whether the maladjustment in the backbone of trade can be cured by reducing production or increasing production.

Trade will become normal and Canada will increase in population and become prosperous, but governments and politicians will have nothing to do with the turning of the tide, except in getting out of the way and ceasing from talking and troubling. Politicians abound in words, but they are not swift in action. They sometimes barter promises for votes, and some of the promises thus sold block the way to solution of some of the problems which affect the present and threaten the future prospects of Canada. Practical politicians in all the political parties, old and new, are paying millions of dollars for the votes of railway employees. And the practical politicians will continue to do this until Canada suffers a financial shock on the jaw.

BY THE EDITORIAL STAFF

Having completed another twelve months of duty, we leave the editorial rooms for a couple of weeks with somewhat mingled feelings. Perhaps muddled would have been a better word. We are going out in the open where trees are free and typewriters and editors are scarcely known. We hope, among other things, that it doesn't rain too hard, the mosquitoes don't bite, Willie the Weasel will keep out of jail and that Broad Street Bertie doesn't do a Lady Godiva during the heat spell. We hope to dangle our feet in Campbell River, look 'em over in Lady-smith, drop down to Nanaimo for a couple fast ones and wind up with a celebration at Cobble Hill, and, as Bertie would say, "Okey Doke."—R. Remember Your Pets

The plea for cats and dogs that is voiced at this time of year by the S.P.C.A. is one that should not be overlooked by anyone with pets who is planning to vacation away from home. All too frequently inadequate provision is made for the animals. Not only do they suffer, sometimes intensely through the neglect of their owners, but frequently they become a nuisance to hand-hearted neighbors and a care and a worry to animal-lovers who cannot bear to see their unable to exercise of without sufficient food and water on these hot days.—H. SUMMER EVENINGS WITH THE STARS

Sir,—I read with interest the report in last Wednesday's paper of the opening meetings of the course of "Summer Evenings With the Stars," held under the auspices of the Victoria centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada. May I amend one statement: These series were initiated in 1932, not last year.

The large attendance on such a dismal evening as last Monday will be gratifying to the organizers. Steadily growing in popularity, these meetings afford evidence of the general desire for knowledge of the stars when it can be gained in such a simple manner, free from all technicalities and difficult technical terms.

These opportunities to familiarize oneself with the names and positions of some of the principal stars will be found most welcome, for we all realize the added interest afforded an object by the simple fact that we learn its name. Those who have not tried for themselves should attend the meetings, for they can hardly imagine how much even a slight acquaintance with the heavens adds to the interest and enjoyment of life, while, if one is a student, it is no longer a matter of quiet scrutiny of the stars. Truly said Lord Avebury: "Suffering may be unavoidable, but there is no excuse for dullness."

MANITOBA REUNION AND BASKET PICNIC TO BE HELD JULY 27

The annual Manitoba reunion basket picnic will be held at the Japanese Gardens, The George, on Saturday afternoon, July 27, at 2 o'clock. All former residents of the Prairie Province are cordially invited to attend. Several hundred persons were present last year and the increasing numbers attending give promise that these annual affairs will become one of the pleasing features of life on the Island in the future.

R. H. BARKER IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Robert Henry Barker, aged fifty-nine, passed away on Sunday at St. Joseph's Hospital. He was born in England and had been a resident of Victoria for the past twenty-three years. He was a valued member of Victoria Lodge No. 2, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He is survived by his widow and daughter, Mrs. W. V. Allen, at the family residence, 225 Howe Street, and one son in Los Angeles, and his mother and two sisters in England.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Sands Mortuary Chapel, and the remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

ADMIRAL DIES FULL OF HONOR

Sir Charles Kingsmill Passes At Country Home—Had Brilliant Career

OTTAWA, July 15 (P.)—Admiral Sir Charles Kingsmill, former director of Canadian Naval Services, died at his country residence today, at the age of eighty. Sir Charles had returned only recently from a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Victor Gordon-Lennox, in London.

Born in Guelph, eighty years ago, Sir Charles Kingsmill was the only Canadian to attain the rank of "admiral" in the Royal Navy. He entered the navy as a young man and served with the British Fleet until 1908, when he accepted command of the Canadian Marine Service. Two years later he was appointed director of the naval service, a post he held until his retirement in 1920.

In 1917 he was promoted from the rank of rear-admiral to that of admiral on the retired list.

RECOGNIZED ABILITY
His ability as a naval officer was recognized abroad as well as at home and he was the possessor of the Egyptian Medal and Bronze Star, was an officer of the French Legion of Honor and a grand officer of the Crown of Italy.

Entering the British Navy in 1869, Admiral Kingsmill was appointed sub-lieutenant in 1875, a lieutenant in 1877, commander in 1891 and captain in 1898.

During the naval and military operations in the Eastern Sudan in 1894, he won the Bronze Star of the Egyptian Khedive. At this time he landed at Zeytoun on the south-east coast of the Gulf of Aden and served as vice-consul and British agent.

Admiral Kingsmill was married to Constance, daughter of Walter Beadmore, of Toronto. There are two sons and one daughter.

TWO ARRESTED OVER BURGLARY

George Bernard and John M. Caird Charged With Possession of Safe

George Bernard and John Morwood Caird were jointly charged in the city police court yesterday morning with possession of a safe, the property of D. O. Cameron, 352 George Road. It contained $5,000 worth of jewelry and insurance policies for $15,000. Bernard and Caird were remanded for a week at their own request to secure counsel.

Detective Fearon Woodburn and Jack H. Rogers, with Constables J. McKennie and Alexander Briggs, had the suspects under observation from Sunday afternoon until the time of their arrest at 9 o'clock Sunday evening in the brickyard at the corner of Tolmie Avenue and Oak Street. They are alleged to have carried the safe there and were returning to open it when arrested.

Entrance to Mr. Cameron's house was gained by a pawskey before midnight Saturday. Several rooms were ransacked and the safe removed while Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were away on a holiday. The robbery was discovered by a maid and Mr. Cameron's son, Newton Cameron, who reported it to police early Sunday morning.

Jewels contained in the safe were a platinum bar pin set with three large diamonds, a platinum ring set with diamonds and a black opal ring. There was also a quantity of silverware, $30 in cash, two watches, four life insurance policies and an air rifle.

NEW TEACHERS ARE SELECTED

J. E. Sanders and Miss Catherine Murray Appointed To Oak Bay Staff

J. E. Sanders—B.A.—was appointed to the teaching staff of Oak Bay High School at a meeting of the municipal school board last night. He will enter upon his new duties on the reopening of school after the summer vacation.

Mr. Sanders will take over the position of teacher of Latin and history, which was made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Alexander Robinson. Mr. Sanders has of late been a teacher in the Esquimalt High School. He was formerly a resident of Oak Bay.

At the same time, the trustees chose Miss Catherine Murray to fill the vacancy in the elementary school. Miss Murray resides in the municipality of Oak Bay, her father having served some years ago as a member of the school board. The appointee went to school in Oak Bay, graduating from the High School there and continuing her academic course in the Victoria College and the Normal School. She has been teaching at Quanael for some time and comes here highly recommended.

This completes the vacancies to be filled on the Oak Bay staff prior to the resuming of school after the holidays. The work to be undertaken by Miss Murray will be left with Captain F. O. Dexter, superintendent of the elementary schools.

TEWKESBURY, Eng.—Declared by architects to be dilapidated and in danger of collapse, an appeal has been made for $215,000 to repair the ancient Norman tower of the Tewkesbury Abbey.

Fire at Denholm Burns Elevator

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. July 15 (P.)—Damage estimated at $30,000 was caused by fire which broke out shortly after midnight at Denholm, about twelve miles south-east of here.

The British American Elevator Company's building was destroyed. Three box cars and a coal shed, a quantity of supplies were also destroyed and the station was badly damaged.

E. & N. OFFERS BARGAIN FARES

Special Rates Are Arranged Between Island Points For Week-End

Residents of Vancouver Island served by the E. & N. Railway, are being afforded a unique opportunity of seeing the Island through the medium of "bargain fares" being offered by the railway company at the end of this week.

In effect it is a multiple excursion. Arrangements have been made for special rates to Island points that are "cheaper than train fares" and other words, the railway bargains permit of travel to many points at much less cost than the same journey could be made by any other form of transportation. Thus, a round trip to Courtenay can be made from Victoria for $2.80; to Port Alberni for $2.70 and to Qualicum Beach for $2.05, and to other points at similarly low rates.

These bargains are available going on July 19 and 20, and the tickets are good for the return trip July 21 to July 23. In this manner, it is felt, an opportunity is afforded to Island residents to visit friends, to see the beauties of the Island, and to spend a real holiday amid the glories of Island scenery.

CHARMING RIDE
The railway journey itself is one of special charm. Leaving Victoria the E. & N. winds high on the Malahat, with the splendours of Saanich Inlet spread in a wonderful panorama below. On through verdant woodlands, the scenery is of an ever-changing beauty. It traverses the rich valleys of the Koksilah and Cowichan, and on to glimpse the shimmering sea between Chemainus and Ladysmith, and by the beautiful straits of Campbell River, or to a hundred and one other attractions that offer in that east central section of the world's great playground.

EXQUISITE SCENERY
The other line from Parksville offers equal delights from the beautiful scenery of the railway coast, as the train turns westward and passes cultivated acres and broad expanses of forest. At Cameron Lake it climbs along the side of that majestic land, set like a jewel amid the hills and passing the famous stand of green timber, with Mt. Arrowsmith visible in its majesty in the distance. It drops gently down to the sea, where the windows of the train reveal the windows of the world.

North it skirts the golden sands of Qualicum, and the park-like stretches to Courtenay, the terminus of this line of the E. & N. Here the train enters the heart of the world's great playground.

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC
St. Paul's (Esquimalt) Sunday School held a successful picnic at Ocean Beach on Saturday, about fifty scholars and parents being present. Racing and swimming were enjoyed by all. A list of twenty homes has been provided the council by the society for particular recognition.

Announcements

Superfluous Hair on the face is admittedly the most hideous feminine blemish. Women very rarely speak of this disfigurement, but secretly and anxiously try every promised cure they see advertised, only to find to their sorrow that the growth is but aggravated by their use. Electrolysis alone is the safe and permanent cure and this is one advertisement which is absolutely true! Women who earnestly desire to find the truth will recognize it. This may urge you to be ruthless in dealing with any form of hypocrisy. You have excellent judgment in both social and business matters. Your loyalty to family and friend is probably one of your finest characteristics. You have executive ability, so should do well in any managerial capacity, especially in a room, gift or specialty shop, office or secretarial work, and work of an educational nature. You have all the qualifications needed to make some man extremely happy, and thus find happiness for yourself.

The child born on July 16 may, when it passes from infancy into childhood, develop a decidedly demanding streak, which is advisable to curb immediately.

If a man and July 16 is your natal day, you are firm in your convictions, and not afraid to express them. Your personality exudes a surplus of vitality. Success should follow any concentrated effort you make to achieve a definite result. Theology, lecturing, writing, teaching, or painting, may be the best mediums from which to select a vocation that will afford your powers for self-expression the wide range they seem to need.

SHOT POLICEMEN AFTER ROBBERY

Mahan, before he took to kidnapping, was known to be a bank robber and besides being wanted for the kidnapping is wanted for several bank robberies in this vicinity.

The Orting bank was held up shortly before noon by a lone, unmasked bandit. Leslie Stone, bank teller, said the bandit walked up to the teller's window, pointed a gun at Stone and said "Hand it over!"

POCKETED THE MONEY
The teller thrust out currency amounting to about $500. The bandit put the money in his pocket and boldly walked out of the bank and jumped into his automobile.

An alarm was immediately sounded and police officers from the neighboring towns of Puyallup and Sumner responded.

Rosemead Manor Visited by Local Horticulturists

A delightful garden party was given on Saturday at Rosemead Manor, Ten Mile Point, the charming country home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kershaw, to the executive of the Victoria Horticultural Society and their wives, together with the Women's Auxiliary of that organization and other friends; upwards of 100 invitations being issued.

The lovely grounds, their beauty enhanced by their glorious setting on the shores of Cadboro Bay, with the panorama of sea, islands and wooded shores, were looking their best. The visitors were particularly interested in the beautiful rock gardens, one of which, sloping down to the sea, terminates in a sea wall of natural rock.

In addition to being ardent horticulturists, the party proved adept at sports, clock golf and bowling being much enjoyed later on in the afternoon. Tea was served by Mrs. Kershaw and her son, assisted by friends, and on leaving, Dr. A. G. Frise expressed the appreciation and gratitude of the society to Mrs. Kershaw for her hospitality.

Uplands Home To Be Opened For W.A. Fete

Victorians and visitors in the city will have the opportunity, tomorrow, of visiting one of the attractive private gardens in the Uplands. The Uplands Home, which is kindly lending for a Diocesan Junior Women's Auxiliary garden party, in a united effort to raise money for the missionary work of the Anglican Church, Lady Lake, president of the Diocesan Board of Columbia Women's Auxiliary, will officiate at the opening at 3 p.m.

The Junior members are providing a programme, and there will be stalls of candy, ice cream, home cooking and miscellaneous articles. In charge of the superintendent of the Junior branches in the city and vicinity.

Afternoon tea served in these lovely surroundings should prove an attraction, of which it is hoped many will take advantage. The bus street car or Blue Line bus pass within a block of the house on Nottingham and Lansdowne Roads, to which there will be directing signs.

Authors' Club Gives Tea for Dr. C. W. Gordon

Dr. Charles W. Gordon, Ralph Connor, of Winnipeg, who spent a day in Victoria on his return from Australia, was entertained by the Victoria and Islands Branch, Canadian Authors' Association, at tea at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon. Receiving the distinguished guest were the president, Miss Eugenie Perry; the treasurer, Mr. Donald A. Fraser, and the secretary, Mrs. Florie McLaren.

Victoria Nurse Returning From Dawson Position

Miss Iris C. Pike, who for the past two years has been nursing at St. Mary's Hospital, Dawson City, Y.T., is on her way back to Victoria, and the following item from The Dawson News, will interest friends here:

"Miss Iris C. Pike, graduate nurse of St. Joseph's Hospital, Victoria, a member of St. Mary's Hospital staff for the past two years, was an outgoing passenger on the steamer Caska this morning, en route to the Coast.

"During her two years at St. Mary's Hospital, Miss Pike won for herself an enviable reputation in her chosen profession and the highest esteem of those whom she worked for, and carries away the sincere wishes of continued success by the 'host of friends' she made while in Dawson, who will miss her million-dollar smile and cheerful word. The dock was crowded this morning with friends, down to say 'au revoir' and wish her 'bon voyage'."

Little Stories for Bedtime

The Matter of Dress

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

"Those cousins don't look much alike, do they?" remarked Jenny when she poked her head out of her house to gossip with Peter Rabbit.

"What cousins?" demanded Peter, staring all about very hard.

"Those two sitting on the fence over there where are your eyes, Peter?" replied Jenny rather sharply.

Peter stared harder than ever. On one post sat Winsome Bluebird and on another post sat Welcome Robin. "I don't see anybody but Winsome and Welcome, and they aren't even related," replied Peter with a puzzled frown.

"Tut, tut, tut, Peter!" exclaimed Jenny Wren. "Tut, tut, tut. Who told you any such nonsense as that? Of course they are related. They are cousins."

"They belong to the same family—Brownie and Thrush and all the other thrushes. That makes them all cousins."

"What?" exclaimed Peter, looking as if he didn't believe a word of what Jenny Wren had said. Jenny repeated what she had said, and still Peter looked doubtful. Then Jenny lost her temper, a thing she does very easily.

"If you don't believe me go ask one of them," she snapped, and disappeared inside her house, where Peter could hear her scolding away to herself.

The more he thought it over the more this struck Peter as good advice. So he hopped over to the foot of the fencepost on which Winsome Bluebird was sitting. "Jenny Wren says you and Welcome Robin are cousins. She doesn't know what she is talking about, does she?" said Peter.

Winsome chuckled. "Yes," said he, nodding his head. "Yes, yes. You can trust that little busybody to know what she is talking about every time. I sometimes think she knows more about the affairs of other people than she does about her own. Welcome Robin and I may not look much alike but we are cousins just the same. Don't you think Cousin Welcome is looking unusually fine this Spring?"

"Not a bit finer than you are yourself," Winsome replied, looking at Peter. "I just love that sky-blue coat of yours. What is the reason, Mrs. Bluebird doesn't wear as bright a coat as you do?"

"Go ask Jenny Wren," chuckled Winsome, and before Peter could say another word flew away. Peter scampered back to tell

CHAPTER XX

"When I walked in the door," Hedges said, "I thought I'd found an excellent reason for staying. Beatrice thwarted all my hopes by telling me you're engaged."

"To her son. I have heard," she said, coming to the point, "that you like to discover new writers."

"Are you a writer?"

"No, but I have a friend who is. If she had been less attractive, he would have wanted to run from me. Everywhere he went, people were thrusting their writing on him. But Noel Stuart was by far the most attractive girl in the room, and Carl Hedges had nothing particular to do this evening."

Noel had a purpose.

"He is Scott Court," she said. "His first book has been accepted, but he has several short stories that are very good. I've read them. Would you . . . her eyes met his frankly."

"Would I read them? If I do, I'll think of a girl in a gold dress. They are good stories," said Noel. "I'm sure if someone would take interest . . ."

"Tell him to send them to me," said Carl Hedges.

Noel was with him all evening. They danced together, sipped champagne, and Noel had to refuse to leave the party—and go night-clubbing with him. His attentions amused her, for she knew he had selected her only because she was the only "new" girl there.

Beatrice watched them together and occasionally smiled at Noel, a smile that meant "It's all right, dear. You're sensible enough to know Carl's time."

When Noel put her hand on Carl's, said good-bye and smiled at him, the evening had been a success. He would read Scott's stories, she said.

It was two o'clock when they reached the hotel. Beatrice took off her wrap and lit a cigarette.

"You see, Noel, this thing called charm. If you hadn't been engaged, then Carl . . ."

Noel looked at her frankly. "Why is it you haven't sent for Stephen?"

"I wondered why you hadn't asked me that. When I divorced Deems, Stephen was furious with me. He was only a boy, but he understood. He told me he never wanted to see me again."

"But he does."

"There was a terrible scene. It seemed only right that he should come to me."

"But you left him," said Noel.

"Yes, that's right, isn't it? I left him. All these years I've thought of him; every year I think 'He's a little taller this year.' But I was so afraid some girl would marry him for his money."

Some girl, thought Noel, almost had.

"He said," said Noel, "that when we knew each other, you and I, I should write him. He wants to come up."

Beatrice's eyes looked through the cigarette smoke.

"Deems, you mean?"

"No," said Noel. "Stephen. Can't Deems come, too?"

Noel knew the furious battle between pride and humility that was going on in her.

"Yes," said Beatrice. "Tell Deems to come, too. Write them in the morning."

The next day Noel wired Stephen and received word in reply that they would be in New York about nine that night. Beatrice, early in the day, left Noel at Radio City and went shopping. They met for lunch.

"I don't deny it, Noel. I'm limited at seeing Stephen and Deems. Deems and I didn't quarrel violently. The awful silence was worse. But Stephen and I had awful scenes. He'll never forget them, but I hope he's forgiven."

"If you had seen his face when he knew you were here."

"Women are strange creatures," said Beatrice. "When Deems became infatuated with another woman, my pride more than my heart was hurt.

"I divorced him and went away. I should have allowed it and taken him back because he really loved me. Yet my silly pride made me suffer for years. She smiled at Noel sadly. "Nothing has ever been able to make up for his loss."

"With him it has been the same," "Do you think so? Oh, but she is impossible now. I mustn't think of it. When we meet we'll be polite strangers who once loved each other."

Still love each other, Noel wanted to say.

At dinner that evening on the roof at the hotel Beatrice was her poised, cool self. They said little. Noel was thinking of Carl Hedges and the possibility of Scott's stories being accepted. But Scott was so far away. She must think of Stephen's coming. It was unfair to think continually of Scott.

In the drawing-room of Beatrice's suite they waited.

The board of these ridiculous situations, said Beatrice. "You know, divorced people accidentally being placed next to each other at a dinner table, but I never thought I'd be involved in such a thing. I'm nervous. I wonder if I'm going to feel that he's a total stranger, or if he's going to seem like my husband. If it's the latter, I'll kiss him without thinking."

Beatrice smiled to hide her nervousness.

"Does this seem absurd to you, Noel?" Two people no longer young Love doesn't necessarily belong to the twenties. When Deems and I met, we're going to think of our youth together. The old intimacy in our eyes, even though we are strangers now. All our youth, our love. Those things are not forgotten."

The telephone rang. Beatrice got up and went to it, the train of her dress skimming the rug.

"Tell them to come up," she said and turned to Noel. "Deems and Stephen are downstairs."

It was Stephen who came in first and for the first moment Beatrice could see only her son. She took him in her arms, all the old bitterness, the stormy scenes forgotten.

"Mother," said Stephen and could not say more. In saying it he asked to be forgiven, and when she put her arms around him, he knew that he was.

"Stephen," said Beatrice in a controlled low voice. "Why, I can't believe. Taller than I and broad-shouldered and so very, very brown. Oh, my dear, it's so good to see you."

Stephen came to Noel and kissed her.

"You look marvelous," he said. Lips close. "Mother has made a chic Noel out of you. What did I tell you about her?"

He stopped and looked at his father and mother as they met. Beatrice gave Deems her hands. How grey he was at the temples. Deems thought, "She looks so tired. But she has come back."

"The same lovely Beatrice," he said.

"Deems, you were always a gentleman."

It was for only a moment that their eyes met. It was the meeting of eyes that spanned many years, happy years, stormy years, lonely years passed before them. "But they are gone," both wanted to say. "All that is behind us now. Couldn't we start again?"

Beatrice turned away. "You sent me an amusing playmate," smiling at Noel, "a girl who says what she thinks. I adore her."

Deems kissed Noel affectionately.

Beatrice's eyes rested first on Stephen and then on Deems. Her son was young, engaged, happy. But Deems was no longer young; he was alone and he looked tired. She could love Stephen because he was her son, because he was strong and handsome, but it was Deems who needed her.

"How is Elinor?" Noel asked.

"Fine. She went to stay with a friend while we were away."

"Does Scott come often?"

"Yes," said Deems. "Scott, poor chap, looks worried. He's probably wondering how a young writer is going to keep a wife of Elinor's tastes."

Beatrice smiled at them.

"Shall we go out? Go places, as they say? If you're too tired . . ."

"Let's go," said Stephen. "I crave Harlem rhythm."

"We've taken a suite above," said Deems. "We'll dress in a hurry."

"We can't go out with two beautiful ladies in our traveling clothes," said Stephen. "They might suspect that Noel is my fiancée, but they'd never suspect that the other lady was my mother."

"Deems," laughed Beatrice, "have you taught our son to be a flatterer?"

In the close confines of a Harlem night club, where aristocrats rubbed elbows with gangland, four people sipped drinks and tried to be gaily casual with one another.

After the floor show Noel and Stephen danced.

"Are you thinking what I'm thinking?" Stephen asked, holding her close. "My father and mother. . . do you think they'll . . ."

"I do," said Noel. "If they'll forget pride."

"Have you missed me, Noel? I no longer get you than you are off again. When Scott came back, he was surprised that you were gone. Disappointed, I think."

"In Elinor grumbling because I have her clothes?"

He laughed. "How did you know?"

"I know Elinor."

"How long does mother expect you to stay?"

"She doesn't say. I'll stay until . . . you know . . ."

"And if that doesn't happen . . ."

"It must. We must help it."

"Happy?"

"Yes."

"There's music in your body, Noel."

At the table Beatrice declined to dance.

"I haven't for years," she said. "Deems, when I see those two out there, young, fond of each other, handsome, I . . ."

"You think of us as we used to be," he said.

Her eyes met him and she looked away. "Yes. It restores my faith in mankind. I'm glad it's Noel. She's so fine."

Stephen and Noel came back to the table. "Let's go early to go back to the hotel," he said. "Let's go to another place."

More night clubs. Old acquaintances, seeing Beatrice and Deems together, stared wonderingly. They had breakfast just before dawn at a little Italian restaurant, which Stephen had always patronized with uncomplaining college chums—while vacationing from the university.

"I'll bet Noel will never forget this night," said Stephen.

"I'm afraid, laughing, stifling a yawn, that my poor feet won't let me."

"Is that a reflection on my dancing?"

"No, on my pretty new sandals with their lofty heels."

"If Elinor could see you," said Deems. "It would warm my heart."

Elinor, back at the island, unhappy, jealous. Despite herself, Noel pitied her sister and her muddy affairs. Did Elinor want her pity? Did any woman need pity who was going to be Scott's wife? A thousand times not. All this false gaiety paid beside sharing life with Scott.

"What," asked Stephen, attacking a sandwich, "shall we do tomorrow?"

"Let tomorrow be tomorrow," said his mother.

Tomorrow and the days following . . . she wanted them and she

BUILD CHILDREN BY FINE SYSTEM

Games and Drills Features of Physical Programme in Victoria Public Schools

How Victoria school pupils are built up, physically, by a system of mainly to correction of postural bad folk dancing in Victoria. Major Hinton explained that three years ago all larger city schools had been divided into four houses, with each house made up of a senior, intermediate and junior division. He described Victoria children as physical equals to any Canadian throughout the school term, each house in competition with the other.

In the Empress Hotel by Major A. C. Hinton, director of physical education for Victoria.

Major Hinton reviewed the progress now carried out in six schools, comparing the present system with that used prior to 1929. He described Victoria children as physical equals to any Canadian throughout the school term, each house in competition with the other.

"Loves of a Dictator" With Clive Brook and Madeleine Carroll
Current Feature

Expensively and lavishly mounted and costumed, "Loves of a Dictator" is pretentious in drama, romance and comedy, as well as in production. In a season that has presented many spectacular pictures, this first Toepfitz Production presented by G.B. and starring Clive Brook and Madeleine Carroll ranks at the top. It opens today at the Dominion Theatre.

Europe's finest technicians combined over this production. Never have lovelier settings been seen on the screen, nor finer artistry employed for exquisite detail. The trappings never intrude; the grandeur of the setting never occupies the screen at the expense of drama. The story is a subtly ironic study of the rise of an unknown provincial doctor to first place in the political annals of eighteenth century Denmark. The screen play has been skilfully plotted by Benn W. Levy from the story by H. G. Lusk and M. Logan.

antics, are at it again in the newest Fox Film comedy-drama, "The Great Hotel Murder," which is the second feature.

CAPITOL "Escape Me Never," the theatricalization of the sensational stage hit, is now at the Capitol Theatre with the brilliant star, Elizabeth Bergner, and many of the principals of the original New York cast, including Hugh Sinclair, Leon Quartermaine and Griffith Jones. The Margaret Kennedy play offers the tiny Austrian actress, who was last seen in film fans in the title role of "Calderine the Great," her finest and most lovable role. Germa Jones, the little wife who is found wandering about Venice half starving and given shelter by Sebastian Sanger, a penniless young composer.

PLAYHOUSE When Jane Baxter, bright new recruit to California's English colony, arrived in Hollywood's moving-picture centre to play an important role in support of Anna Sten and Fredric March in Samuel Goldwyn's "We Live Again," now showing at the Playhouse Theatre, she was armed with a letter of introduction to the distinguished character actor, C. Aubrey Smith. To her surprise, she discovered that Smith was cast as her father in the film.

COLUMBIA Herbert Mundin, British comedian appearing in "Hell in the Heavens" now at the Columbia Theatre, finally convinced studio officials he could sing. He has his first chance on the screen in the current film and his song is titled "Archibald Certainly Not," a favorite of the London music halls during the war.

FOOT RACE BETTING

CAPE TOWN, South Africa.—Wagering on foot racing is a popular sport here—or it was. The other day the crowd was told that I. Tomagno was winner of a seventy-five yard handicap sprint, and the bookmakers paid off on that. But W. J. Booth actually won the race and the bookmakers were just out of luck. The bookies were not paying off twice.

ANNUAL SPORTS

Fifth B.C. Coast Unit Closes Week in Camp With Varied Competitions

A fine programme of sports brought to a close one week in camp by the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade. The sports were held Sunday afternoon under ideal weather conditions at Macaulay Point, where the officers and men of the brigade had been under canvas.

The 12th Heavy Battery captured the tug-of-war event from a strong field provided by the other batteries. To the 56th Battery went the honor of winning the dummy loader competition. This event, too, was keenly contested by the other batteries. The signalling contest was won by the 12th Heavy Battery. The 56th, however, won the aggregate.

TRACK EVENTS

Caldwell ran a beautifully timed race to win the 40-yard event, with Alex Gaunt, flashy Y.M.C.A. runner, taking over second position. Caldwell made it two in a row by winning the seventy-five yard dash. Gaunt came into his own in the 220-yard event, which he won handily. The relay race was well contested, with the honors going to the 56th Heavy Battery.

Mrs. M. A. Kent, wife of the commanding officer, presented the prizes to the winning competitors at the completion of the sports. Officials who were responsible for the success of the meet included R. S. M. Duto, announcer; clerk of course, Major B. R. Kerr; judges, Captain Pauline, Sergeant Seed and L. Bdr. Marian; starter, Sergeant Paul Rowe. The sports were under the organization of Lieutenant Howard and committee.

Cardinals Outfielder Continues to Climb in Bat Race—Terry Gains

By the Associated Press
Joe Medwick and Bill Terry, the only members of baseball's Big Six to see action yesterday, took advantage of the opportunity to close in on the leaders. The slugging St. Louis Cardinals outfielder drove out three hits in four trips to the plate for a gain of five points, while the New York Giants' manager connected three times in five at bats for an increase of four points. As the result, Medwick ended the day with an average of .374 and Terry with .350.

U.S. Tennis Squad Picked to Hurdle Germany in Davis Cup Series

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—Without showing a trace of over-confidence although most British experts called them to defeat Germany in the Davis Cup inter-zone final this week-end, the members of the United States international tennis squad put in two hours of hard practice today at Wimbledon.

Non-playing Captain Joseph Wear, of Philadelphia, is making a point of not letting the singles players—Wilder Allison, of Austin, Tex.; Don Budge, of Oakland, Cal.; and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York—play against each other in order to avert anything resembling a "test match."

Although the actual assignment of berths will not be made until the draw Friday, Wear has chosen Allison, Budge, Wood and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, for the test with Germany, the winner to meet the cup-holding British team in the challenge round. Even conceding Baron Gottfried von Cramm two singles victories, the consensus here is America could not be prevented from taking the title and two other singles from the youthful German player, Heiner Henkel.

New Cliffside
Courts Opened

Before a large gathering of residents and visitors, Mrs. Gordon Hunter, wife of the late Chief Justice of British Columbia, opened the Cliffside Tennis Club, at the southern end of Shawnigan Lake, at the week-end. She congratulated Ward Collins, who designed and built the courts, on his excellent work and on his success in the face of natural difficulties, the courts being cut out of a clay cliff. After the official opening a tournament was held. Players from Shawnigan and Victoria praised the excellence of the new courts. First honors were taken by Miss M. Ferris and A. Barr, with M. Croe and Miss Hodge second, and Miss Barr and Miss A. Hood third. Armand McDiarmid and Stewart Todd led in the junior contests. After the tournament tea was served to the large gathering by Mr. and Mrs. Collins.

Doyle Scores Kayo

NEWARK, N.J., July 15 (AP)—Jack Doyle, handsome Irish heavyweight, scored a four-round knockout to night over Jack Redmond, Indianapolis negro, in his second United States ring appearance. Early in the fourth Redmond went down for a short count, wobbled to his feet and hung on the ropes under a rain of blows. He fell through the ropes when the end came and was counted out as he lay in the laps of ringside spectators. Doyle weighed 209, Redmond 183-12. The bout was scheduled for six rounds.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

ENGLAND IN FINE POSITION TO WIN TEST MATCH

Local Shotmakers Defeat Two Sound City Stars 3 and 2

Jimmy Todd and Bob Morrison Register Sweet Victory Over "Scotty" Campbell and Harry Givan at Oak Bay Course—Fine Golf Witnessed by Large Gallery During Day

AINING back the lead at the twenty-fourth green, then increasing it to end the match at the thirty-fourth, Jimmy Todd, Oak Bay champion, and Bob Morrison, star shotmaker from the Uplands Golf Club, scored a sweet victory over Albert "Scotty" Campbell, P.N.W. champion, and Harry Givan, runner-up, both of Seattle, in the scheduled thirty-six hole exhibition Sunday at the Oak Bay course. Down only twice during the match, which attracted a large gallery both in the forenoon and after the noon time intermission, the local lads combined in sensational style to take the victory from the two ranking Sound City club-winners.

Campbell played beautiful golf over the first nine in the morning, but slipped on the incoming route. He swung back into action in the afternoon and was two strokes under par on the outgoing distance, the best nine-hole performance during the day. "Scotty" showed the Northwest amateur titleholder and twice a holder of the Canadian crown. He carried dynamite in his rusty putter all day and delighted the crowd with some brilliant work on the carpets. On the fifteenth he canned a long approach putt from off the green to get a four which halved the hole.

FIRST APPEARANCE
Playing in Victoria for the first time, Givan shot a fine 69 in the morning, a great display, considering he was testing the course for the first time. He bonned out some terrific tee shots but could not seem to solve the strength of the greens. At times the distance deceived him for he was short with some of his shots to the greens.

Todd and Morrison played great golf. When one of them was not winning a hole the other would step in and take it. After halving the first hole, the local players dropped the second and third when Campbell won them with a three and four to two down. Todd won the sixth with a birdie, sliced the lead and then Morrison canned another under-par figure at the tenth to square the match. Both Todd and Morrison cut fours at the tenth to put them in the lead for the first time.

BELL TAKES NET CROWN
New Yorker Defeats Dick Bennett in Final of Washington State Meet

SEATTLE, July 15 (AP).—Although he won the Washington State tennis championship as expected, Berkeley Bell, New York, one of America's highest ranking stars, had discovered today that they also play the game on the Pacific Coast.

Displaying a variety of shots which were as striking as the weather, Bell defeated Dick Bennett, Oakland, but it took him the full five sets to shake the nineteen-year-old youngster. The scores were 7-5, 4-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Bell had to produce all the court tricks which carried him to the top in the tennis world to come from behind for victory. When he really went to work in the last two sets he had full command of the situation. Bennett eased up in the fourth to save himself for the deciding set, but he didn't have a chance when Bell won the first three games of the last set without the loss of a point. The New Yorker made only eleven errors in the closing set.

led by Katherine Rose, Los Angeles, Californians captured five of the other nine titles, and gained part of another during the week of play. Miss Rose scored a dramatic upset when she copped the women's singles title by defeating Cusack Riegner, San Francisco, 6-4, 6-2. Miss Riegner had been seeded No. 1 and Miss Rose No. 3. The San Francisco girl was trying for all the corners, and missing, while Miss Rose was content to just send everything back across the net.

Bell and Henry Prusoff, Seattle, came from behind to defeat Bennett and Paul Newton, Berkeley, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2, for the men's doubles crown.

Miss Rose and Margaret Laird, Glendale, won the women's doubles title from Mrs. Golda Myer Gross, Berkeley, and Ann Cook, Seattle, 6-4, 6-2, and Miss Riegner and Howard Blethen San Francisco copped the mixed doubles championship by triumphing over Jane Stanton, Pasadena, and Wayne Babbin, Portland, 9-7, 6-2.

Other title winners during the week were: Jack Gurley, Sacramento, boys' singles; Russ Hawes, Vancouver, B.C., boys' doubles; Darrell Kelly, Portland, Junior singles; Doug Timhoff, Long Beach, 6-4, 6-2, and Miss Riegner and Howard Blethen San Francisco copped the mixed doubles championship by triumphing over Jane Stanton, Pasadena, and Wayne Babbin, Portland, 9-7, 6-2.

SCHMELING TO FACE BAER IN GARDEN BOWL

Former Ring Champions Will Fight in September For Johnston

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP).—James J. Johnston, boxing director of Madison Square Garden, announced today he had made an agreement with former heavyweight champion, Max Baer, to meet another former titleholder, Max Schmeling, in a fifteen-round bout in September in the Garden's Long Island City bowl.

"Antel Hoffman, Baer's manager, has agreed to meet Schmeling under the Garden's auspices provided we can assure him we have Schmeling under contract," Johnston said. "I talked with Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager in Berlin, over the trans-Atlantic telephone yesterday and he told me Schmeling consented to meet Baer."

If Johnston's plans materialize, the winner of the Schmeling-Baer contest will meet Champion James J. Braddock in a fifteen-round title bout next June.

Johnston's announcement conflicts with the plans of the 20th Century Sporting Club, which announced over the week-end it had completed arrangements for a Schmeling-Jacobson fight on either September 17 or 18 in one of New York's two major league baseball parks.

BOURNE FINISHES SECOND POSITION

BLACKPOOL, England, July 15 (AP).—Munroe Bourne, of Montreal, Rhodes scholar who formerly was at McGill University, placed second today in the 220-yard freestyle at the Amateur Swimming Association championships here.

Bourne's time was 2 minutes 27 seconds. Norman Wainwright, who won the event, equalled the English record for the distance of 2 minutes 20 seconds.

Previously the Montreal swimmer had finished fifth in the 100-yard freestyle, his time being 58.1 seconds. Gabrielson won the event in 55.2 seconds. Bourne had won his heat in 57 seconds.

B.C.R.A. Will Pay Fees of Riflemen At Ottawa Meeting

At a meeting of the council of the British Columbia Rifle Association, held over the week-end, it was decided that all members of the organization who competed in this year's meeting at Heals Range, and who did not win a place on the Ottawa team, and who desire to travel to Canada's capital at their own expense, will have their entrance fees paid by the provincial association.

Sergeant James Kier, 11th (A.C.) Squadron, R.C.A.F. (N.P.), Vancouver, pictured above, turned in a phenomenal performance, last week at Heals Rifle Range, during the fifty-seventh annual prize meeting of the B.C.R.A. Shooting consistently during the five days, Kier clinched his fine performance by winning the Lieutenant-Governor's Match, the blue ribbon event, and the Grand Aggregate, on Saturday. He also captured the All-Corers' Aggregate and a number of other individual awards. In five days of shooting a possible 755—quite an achievement, and a record that is expected to stand for many a day.

Macdonald Park Will Be Scene of Monster International Event

Monster Track and Field Meet Will Be Staged Under Auspices of Civic Employees' Federation of Greater Victoria—Stars to Compete

Tentative plans went forward yesterday for the staging of a monster international track and field meet at Macdonald Park here on Wednesday, August 28, under the auspices of the Civic Employees' Federation of Greater Victoria. Athletic stars from Washington, Oregon, Mainland and Interior points and Vancouver Island will all be invited to compete in the meet, one of the largest of its kind attempted here for many a day.

Another attraction and one that will provide added color to the gathering of the cream of Washington, Oregon and British Columbia track and field stars, will be Highland dancing and pipe contests. These events, always popular at the Canadian games on the Mainland, will undoubtedly prove popular with the fans here.

The Victoria entries will be recruited from the Y.M.C.A., navy, police and the militia, while the pick of track and field competitors from Duncan, Ladysmith, Nanaimo and other Vancouver Island points will be invited to attend.

All of the athletic clubs at Vancouver will be contacted with a view to getting entries for the meet. It is expected that all members of the organization will also be sent to Trail, Penticton, New Westminster, Kelowna, Powell River and Seattle.

Bruce Humber, former Victorian, now displaying plenty of speed with the University of Washington track and field squad, will be asked to compete here, in addition to Vincent Forbes, Powell River sensation; Allan Poole, clever sprinter from Kelowna; Marjorie Thompson, fair

UP-ISLANDERS WIN CRICKET

Defeat Victoria, 109 to 103 In Friendly Match Played At Duncan

DUNCAN, July 15.—Up-Island cricketers defeated a side selected from the Victoria and District Cricket Association 109 to 103, in a friendly match played on the local grounds yesterday. The home side batted first, with Barnett, their first bat, putting on twenty-eight runs before being dismissed by Tisdall. Burns, with nineteen, not out, Fox with seventeen and Conditine with thirteen were the other members of the home side to reach double figures.

Reg Wenman, strong Victoria batsman, led the visitors' scoring parade with a well-played thirty-two. Griffin with seventeen, Darcus with fifteen and Nation with twelve also reached double figures for the Capital City side. The scores:

UPLANDS WIN GOLF MATCH AND TROPHY

Retains Straith Cup on Home Course by Defeating Colwood Club

Capturing the "A" match by a comfortable margin, Uplands Golf Club retained the Straith Cup Sunday when they clashed with Royal Colwood Golf Club in the annual trophy match at the Uplands course and came through with a 29 1-2 to 5 1-2 victory. Uplands took the foursomes, 16-2, and then walked off with the fourballs, 13 1-2 to 4 1-2. In the feature match, Dave Randall and Sandy Marling, Colwoods lead-off pair, defeated Harold Pretty and Harold Brynjolson. In the singles, Pretty beat Randall and Marling took the measure of Brynjolson.

TWO PRISONERS SEEK REDRESS

One Appellant to Be Heard
Next Sitting While Other
Appeal Dismissed

Two prisoners appeared in person before the British Columbia Court of Appeal here yesterday to press for the upsetting of the convictions against them in the lower courts. Morris Peterson took an appeal against the sentence before Mr. Justice Martin, but his representations failed to win for him any right to have the sentence interfered with. He had been tried before Police Magistrate H. B. Wood, in the Vancouver police court, and sentenced to three years for having lived in part on the earnings of prostitution.

When he got before the full court later in appeal against the conviction, he made representations that his counsel had not made it clear to him what the offence was to which he was pleading guilty. He said he thought he was simply pleading guilty on a charge of vagrancy.

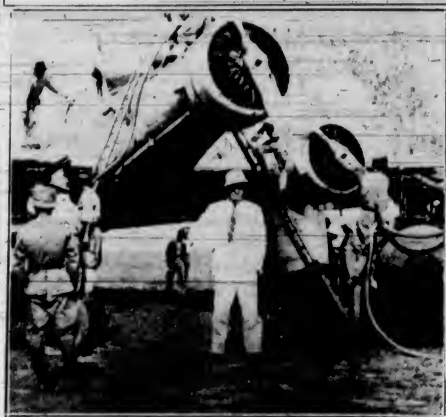

Mr. Justice Martin suggested to W. B. Colvin, who appeared for the Attorney-General, that he should get in touch with the solicitor who represented the accused and find out what the situation was. This was agreed to and the hearing of the appeal was then adjourned until the next sitting of the court in Vancouver in October.

DISMISSED APPEAL

The second prisoner to appear was John Seigo, who appealed from the conviction by the same police magistrate, who sentenced him to one year in jail on a charge of breaking and entering. The appeal was dismissed after the appellant represented that the case arose out of trouble during the strike period in Vancouver. He said that he had nothing to do with the breaking of the window nor with the strike.

Mr. Justice Martin declared that the trouble was that while the accused argued that the decision was against the weight of evidence, he had nothing to support what he put forward. The case of Rex vs. Inouye, which was set down for hearing, was adjourned until next sitting, with the consent of the parties.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 15.—George W. Tryon is a snow-white-haired Kyrie fellow looking veteran advertising man known in his field and along Broadway as a Brunel. For thirty years his smart sartorial effects have been remarked around Times Square, a region noted for swank. Yet Tryon, despite his fastidious appearance, probably spends less on dress than many laborers on the Bowery. In days when the expense of dressing is a capital strain on almost every purse, the effects he achieves—and how he achieves them—are worthy of chronicle.

He is fond of light colors and usually has a wardrobe of six suits and two topcoats. Aside from a dinner outfit, the highest price he paid for any one is $17.50. Some as low as $13.95. He has a commanding figure, but his secret lies in effective shopping. Hunting out odd-lot bargains. He has twenty-five shirts, collars attached, none of which cost more than fifty cents save for a couple for sixty-five cents which he wears with high Piccadilly collar and bat wing. He wears high Piccadilly collar and bat wing. He wears high Piccadilly collar and bat wing.

Bob Brinkerhoff at the pipe-sellers January 1. "This pipe is all burned out already." "Yes, but you have scraped all the cake out of the bowl, no wonder." On July 1 (same place): "This pipe has burned out already." "Yes, no wonder. You ought to scrape out the cake and keep it clean." Tableau!

Gelett Burgess has one of his revolutionary articles in a recent issue of Technology Review. It's upon "Efficiency in Fiction," and defines what he calls nudism and nudism in art. I predict a career for his newest word, nudism, as applied to literature. Especially literature of the fancy wastecost verbiage, the spring-bottomed phrases all bejeweled with metaphors and bowed with brass adjectives. Such as Fannie Hurst or Achmed Abdullah turn in more fanciful moments.

Manhattan interlude: It was near Grace Square. A little girl of four and her nurse were almost run over by a truck, charging hell bent. In her terror the child dropped her doll and that ten-ton champion's wheels crushed it as flat as a gingerbread man. But it wasn't the little girl's heart-broken sobs that touched the bystanders. It was the indescribable look on the face of a fat man without a collar, who looked at her and her doll and dabbed his eyes with a dirty rag of a handkerchief.

Someone sends me what Jesse Lynch Williams said in an obituary blurb for the late Harvey O'Higgins. "He hadn't an enemy in the world." And underneath it the sender scribbled "Carve not that upon my gravestone, O simple flatterer!"

The only American newspaperman I have known to join the monocle wearers is Forrest Wilson, all-
